

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
A Note on Transliteration and Toponyms	x

Part I. Background

Introduction Constructing a Rampart Nation: Conceptual Framework Liliya Berezhnaya and Heidi Hein-Kircher	3
Chapter 1 The Origins of Antemurale Christianitatis Myths: Remarks on the Promotion of a Political Concept Kerstin Weiland	31

Part II. (De-)Sacralizing and Nationalizing Borderlands

Chapter 2 Not a Bulwark, but a Part of the Larger Catholic Community: The Romanian Greek Catholic Church in Transylvania (1700–1850) Ciprian Ghisa	61
Chapter 3 Securitizing the Polish Bulwark: The Mission of Lviv in Polish Travel Guides during the Late Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries Heidi Hein-Kircher	81
Chapter 4 Ghetto as an “Inner Antemurale ”? Debates on Exclusion, Integration, and Identity in Galicia in the Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries Jürgen Heyde	103
Chapter 5 Holy Ground and a Bulwark against “the Other”: The (Re)Construction of an Orthodox Crimea in the Nineteenth-Century Russian Empire Kerstin S. Jobst	125

Chapter 6 Bastions of Faith in the Oceans of Ambiguities: Monasteries in the East European Borderlands (Late Nineteenth–Beginning of the Twentieth Century) 146
Liliya Berezhnaya

Chapter 7 “The Turkish Wall”: Turkey as an Anti-Communist and Anti-Russian Bulwark in the Twentieth Century 186
Zaur Gasimov

Part III. Promoting Antemurale Discourses

Chapter 8 Why Didn’t the Antemurale Historical Mythology Develop in Early Nineteenth-Century Ukraine? 207
Volodymyr Kravchenko

Chapter 9 Translating the Border(s) in a Multilingual and Multiethnic Society: Antemurale Myths in Polish and Ukrainian Schoolbooks of the Habsburg Monarchy 241
Philipp Hofeneder

Chapter 10 Mediating the Antemurale Myth in East Central Europe: Religion and Politics in Modern Geographers’ Entangled Lives and Maps 262
Steven Seegel

Chapter 11 Bulwarks of Anti-Bolshevism: Russophobic Polemic of the Christian Right in Poland and Hungary in the Interwar Years and Their Roots in the Nineteenth Century 293
Paul Srodecki

Chapter 12 Defenders of the Russian Land: Viktor Vasnetsov’s Warriors and Russia’s Bulwark Myth 319
Stephen M. Norris

Part IV. Reflections on the Bulwark Myths Today

Chapter 13 Antemurale Thinking as Historical Myth and Ethnic Boundary Mechanism 347
Pål Kolstø

Chapter 14 Concluding Thoughts on Central and Eastern European Bulwark Rhetoric in the Twenty-First Century 374
Paul Srodecki

Index 396