

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Introduction	1
Part I. The Setting of Massacres: Prehistory, Enemy Constructs and the Order of Violence	33
Chapter 1. Continuities and Ruptures: Germans and Poles before 1939	35
Chapter 2. Occupation as a Framework for Action: Ideology, Politics and Violence	58
Part II. ‘Polish Bands’: War, Occupation Policy and the Logic of Massacres	117
Chapter 3. Beyond the Border: The War in September 1939	127
Chapter 4. Initiation and Practice: ‘Hubal’ and the Beginnings of Counter-Partisan Operations	162
Chapter 5. Removal of Constraints: Fighting Partisans through a ‘Small-Scale War’ in 1942	180
Chapter 6. Losing Control: Escalating Crisis and the Dynamics of Violence in 1943	210
Chapter 7. Authority amid the Death Throes: The Final Phase of German Rule, 1944–45	228
Chapter 8. Transfer and Culmination: The Quelling of the Warsaw Uprising in 1944	252

Part III. Coming to Terms with the Past after 1945	273
Chapter 9. Extradition and Punishment: Poland, the Allies and German Perpetrators	277
Chapter 10. Prosecution and Suppression: Massacres and German Justice	286
Conclusion	295
Bibliography	307
Index	340