Introduction. On the Challenges of Measuring Diversity in Archaeology	1
Briggs Buchanan and Metin I. Eren
Chapter 1. Dispersion and Diversity: Parfleche Variation on the Great Plains vs. the Columbia Plateau	26
Stephen J. Lycett
Chapter 2. The Diversity of North America's "Old Copper" Projectile Points	43
Michelle R. Bebbler and Anne Chao
Chapter 3. Diversity in Hunter-Gatherer Architecture	64
Brian Andrews, Danielle Macdonald, and Brooke Morgan
Chapter 4. The Potential of Coverage-Based Rarefaction in Zooarchaeology	81
J. Tyler Faith and Andrew Du
Chapter 5. Diversity and Lithic Microwear: Quantification, Classification, and Standardization	97
W. James Stemp and Danielle A. Macdonald
Chapter 6. Intensification Mechanisms Driving Dietary Change among the Great Plains Big Game Hunters of North America	125
Erik Otárola-Castillo, Melissa G. Torquato, and Matthew E. Hill
Appendix 6.1. Summary Information for Archaeological Sites Used in This Study	159

Chapter 7. Challenges and Prospects of Richness and Diversity Measures in Paleoethnobotany	178
Alan Farahani and R. J. Sinensky
Appendix 7.1. Abundance of Reproductive Plant Parts Recovered from the Las Capas Site, Southeastern Arizona, 1220–730 BCE	205
Chapter 8. Quantifying Evenness of Paleoindian Projectile Point Forms within Geographic Regions of Eastern North America	213
Matthew T. Boulanger, Ryan P. Breslawski, and Ian A. Jorgeson
Chapter 9. Thinking about Diversity in Material Culture at Multiple Scales	247
Steven L. Kuhn
Chapter 10. Measuring and Comparing Class Diversity in Archaeological Assemblages: A Brief Guide to the History and State-of-the-Art in Diversity Statistics	263
Robert K. Colwell and Anne Chao
Epilogue. Diversity Metrics are Convenient, but Their Archaeological Meanings Are Still Obscure	295
R. Lee Lyman
