Contents

Acknowledgements viii

Preface to the German Edition of 2017 ix

List of Abbreviations xii

Introduction 1

Chapter 1. Conservatism and Toryism: Concepts of Self-Description in the Political Languages of Conservatism in the United Kingdom 25

1.1. Conservatism, Toryism and the Party: Determinants in Conceptual Formation since the Late Eighteenth Century 25

1.2. New, Progressive, Modern: Conservatism and Toryism, 1945–63 32

1.2.1. Striving towards the Future: The Delicate Balance of the Temporal Dimensions and Modern Conservatism 32

1.2.2. 'Being Conservative': Michael Oakeshott's Solitary Voice in the 1950s 41

1.2.3. Committing to Balance: Harold Macmillan and the Middle Way 43

1.2.4. The Loss of Legitimacy of Modern Conservatism in the Early 1960s 46

1.3. A Conceptual-Political Gap and Alternatives to Fill It: Edward Heath and the Crux of Political Language, 1964–75 50

1.3.1. 'The Great Divide' and Managerial Pragmatism 50

1.3.2. Critical Minds and Intellectual Mobilization: Heath's Critics in the Party and Their Focus on Vocabulary 55

1.3.3. 'A Better Tomorrow': Prime Minister Heath and the Collapse of a Horizon of Expectation 68

1.4. Strategies of Conceptual Politics: Thatcherism and Its Concepts of Self-Description, 1975–79 73

1.4.1. A 'Clear, Coherent Political Philosophy': The Claim to Conceptual Interpretative Authority 75

The Guardians of Concepts
Political Languages of Conservatism in Britain and West Germany, 1945-1980
Martina Steber
https://www.berghahnbooks.com/title/SteberGuardians
Not for resale

1.4.2. 'An Opening to the Future': The Realignment of Temporal Dimensions in Thatcherism 77

1.4.3. Right or Centre*? Concepts of Political Orientation and the Dichotomy of Political Language* 87

Chapter 2. The Arduous Quest for Conservatism in the Federal Republic of Germany 107

2.1. Challenged by Liberal Democracy: The Concept of Conservatism in the Early Federal Republic of Germany 107

2.1.1. Conservatism after the Catastrophe: Determinants of Conceptualization in the Early Postwar Period 108

2.1.2. Silence and Tentative Conceptual Definitions: Conservatism in the West German Debates of the Weimar New Right 114

2.1.3. A Self-Confident Appropriation: The German Party's Concept of Conservatism 125

2.1.4. Conservative Positions and the Christian Abendland*: The Abendland Movement* 133

2.1.5. Between Abashed Silence and Ambivalent Thematization: Journalistic Interpretations of the Concept of Conservatism 137

2.2. Christian Politics in Secular Times: Discourses of Self-Understanding in the CDU and CSU during the Late 1950s and Early 1960s 154

2.2.1. An Explosive Party Conference Speech: Eugen Gerstenmaier and Liberalism in the Union Parties 156

2.2.2. The Christian-Social Wing of the Union and the 'High C' 162

2.2.3. Attempts at a Conceptual Compromise: Christian Politics and Conservatism 166

2.2.4. The Self-Image of a Christian Worldview Party 173

2.2.5. Politics in the Style of the Union: Self-Attributions and the Structural Principles of Political Language 179

2.3. 'We Carry Concepts of Concealed Language around with Us': Language Loss, Language Criticism and Conceptual Offensives in the 1960s and 1970s 191

2.3.1. The Loss of Language in the Union of the 1960s, and Strauß's Conceptual Initiative 191

2.3.2. The Union Parties' Language-Policy Offensive: Sematest and Linguistic Policy Consulting in the 1970s 201

2.3.3. Intellectual Language Criticism with Conservative Aims 207

The Guardians of Concepts
Political Languages of Conservatism in Britain and West Germany, 1945-1980
Martina Steber
https://www.berghahnbooks.com/title/SteberGuardians
Not for resale

2.4. '1968', 1969 and the Reformulation of the Political Languages of Conservatism 216
2.4.1. In a 'Struggle over Naming': Intellectual Conservatism in a Liberal Spirit 216
2.4.2. Right-Wing Instead of Conservative: German Continuities or the Second Variant of the Concept of Conservatism 241
2.4.3. Conservative Parties? The Linguistic-Political Challenge of the CDU and CSU 271
2.4.4. Parties of the Centre*: Conceptual Deficits and the Programmatic Renewal of the Union* 291

Chapter 3. Initial Conclusions: Political Languages of Conservatism in Comparison – Conceptual Divergences and Structural Similarities 357

Chapter 4. Entering into European Conversation: CDU, CSU and the Conservative Party in Search for a Shared Political Language 369
4.1. A History of Mutual Acknowledgement: The Cooperation among CDU, CSU and the Conservative Party from the 1950s to the 1980s 370
4.2. Conservative Connections? CDU, CSU and the Conservative Party, and the Solution for Conceptual Predicaments in Europe 389
4.3. Anti-socialist Agreement in 1970s Europe: Strauß, Thatcher and Kohl and the Struggle for Freedom 402

Conclusion 426

Glossary 440
Bibliography 444
Index 535

The Guardians of Concepts
Political Languages of Conservatism in Britain and West Germany, 1945-1980
Martina Steber
https://www.berghahnbooks.com/title/SteberGuardians
Not for resale